

In this Chapter:

- Tone and decibel requirements
- Specifications for voice evacuation and communication systems
- Specifications for two-way telephone system
- Testing and acceptance of EVC systems

Intent of the Chapter:

- To provide clear and audible messages through voice speakers such that occupants can react and take action swiftly during emergency situations to get out of the facility to the point of safety.
- To provide design basis for the emergency voice evacuation and communication systems.